

Para-Judo Information Sheet

About the Sport

Judo was first added to the program at the Seoul 1988 Paralympic Games. The sport is open to athletes with a vision impairment across seven weight categories for men and six categories for women.

Judo requires athletes to employ a mix of attack and defence. Contests last five minutes and the athletes (judokas) gain points for throws, holds, armlocks and strangles in a bid to beat their opponent. The judoka who scores the higher amount of points wins.

Who can compete?

Para-Judo is open to athletes with a vision impairment. Athletes are required to submit medical reports and meet the minimum impairment criteria in order to compete.

Eligible impairments	Description	Minimum Impairment Criteria
Vision Impairment	Impairment of the eye structure, optic nerves or pathways, or vision area of the brain, resulting in a loss of vision in both eyes. Caused by conditions such as albinism, macular degeneration, macular or cone rod dystrophy and retinitis pigmentosa.	Visual acuity loss in both eyes (how far they can see) with best corrected vision. Vision is less than or equal to 6/60 (log MAR 1.00); or Visual field restriction in both eyes (how wide they can see) of less than 40 degrees diameter with best corrected vision.

Para-Judo Sport Classes

Although Judo players are allocated a sport class based on their level of vision, they all compete together in weight categories.

Sport Classes	Description (Guide Only)
B1	Players who are blind and have no light perception.
B2	Players who have very low vision in both eyes either in how far they can see (visual acuity <2/60; LogMAR 1.5-2.6 inclusive) or how wide they can see (visual field <10 degrees diameter)
B3	Players who have low vision in both eyes, but more vision than B3 players. Vision is affected either in how far they can see (visual acuity <6/60; LogMAR 1-1.4 inclusive) or how wide they can see (visual field < 40 degrees diameter).
Not Eligible (NE)	Players do not meet the minimum criteria for the Para-sport classes, but may still be able to compete. Contact Judo Australia for more information.
